BUSINESS ANALYSIS

Advanced Mobile Group begins each new customer relationship by taking the time to carefully understand your current and future business requirements. As part of this analysis we will work with you to identify all of the components required to implement an effective mobile computing solution. Advanced Mobile Group has the knowledge to improve your company's performance while providing a competitive advantage for your businesses success.

SYSTEM DESIGN

» Network Design

Understanding all aspects of a network design is crucial to an effective wireless system. Advanced Mobile Group performs a comprehensive assessment of needs for local and wide area network implementation, wireless needs and security, all with an eye on potential growth and expansion. This analysis helps us to define your final network configuration, recommendations and installation.

» Hardware Specification and Selection

Our years of expertise and relationships with major hardware manufacturers allow us to provide you with the most innovative hardware technologies available today. After thoroughly analyzing your information management requirements, Advanced Mobile Group reviews and recommends the best solution. Our technologies, including barcode, RFID, and voice, offer the best performance, data integrity and operational efficiencies.

» Software Specification and Selection

By understanding your specific requirements, we determine your software and mobile computing integration requirements. Advanced Mobile Group offers both custom software services, including integration services with ERP systems, and "off the shelf" data management solutions. We offer you the best technology available from our extensive list of software solution providers.

» Securing Network Solutions

The security of your wireless network is critical to your business. We can help your organization plan, design and build solutions that meet your unique security requirements, ensuring the safety of your data.

SYSTEM IMPLEMENTATION

» Project Management

Our industry depth and expertise allow us to define project goals, manage resources, and implement all aspects of a project from beginning to end.

» Staging, Kitting & Configuration

We provide a full range of staging and kitting services that are customized to your business needs and requirements, including pre-configuring and testing a solution to guarantee a trouble-free installation.

» Wireless Activation

Advanced Mobile Group will collect and record your mobile devices' information at the time of shipment, saving time at activation. Activating devices only when needed in a staged rollout process saves time and allows you to focus on the important aspects of your business.

» On-Site Installation and Testing

The installation phase is the most important phase of implementing a wireless project. Our wireless LAN installation services help you implement new wireless technology with minimal disruption of your existing infrastructure.

» Training

Cutting-edge technology won't work if your employees' technical skills don't keep pace. Our on-site training services include end-user, system administrator and maintenance and support training for your specific environment. We offer clients customized training programs that are tailored to support your unique solutions.

SYSTEM SUPPORT

» On-Site Support

Our experienced and certified technicians provide on-site support to resolve your network issues quickly. These support services can be integrated with our help desk offerings to create a complete and customized support solution to best fit your needs.

» Repair and Maintenance

We understand that unplanned downtime means a loss in revenue. Advanced Mobile Group offers a variety of maintenance plans to fit your company's needs and protect your hardware investment. Our team of certified technicians provides fast and reliable support on every piece of equipment we support.

» Managing Network Solutions

As your integrated IT partner, Advanced Mobile Group continually monitors the health of your mobile network. Your technology is skillfully managed and automatically updated to optimize the success of your network.
